FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES.

Greenlee News.

Chas. M. Williams, of our great Chin Mail board, did not wish to let the books of the dispensary be examined, because he "suspected it was for political purposes," and now the attempt is made to break the force of the revelation made by the examination by saying it was "for political purposes." This is too thin. If the revelations are true, and nobody attempts to deny them, what difference does it make whether the facts were obtained for political purposes or not? The important fact, and the only important one, is that the revelations are true, and that the dispensary is a great source of corruption. In the course of a short and necessarily hurried investigation, several shortages were discovered, one for several hundred dollars standing over for more than two years, and the party guilty of the shortage never called to account. If all the facts in connection with the South Carolina dispensary could be got at and published, they would make a most interesting reading. There is a great deal of rascality connected with the dispensary that has never gone on the books and is known only to the parties immediately concerned. Enough, however, is positively known to prove that the dispensary is a huge source of corruption, and such it will continue to be as long as it lasts.

Is it just as logical to say that a denial of an examination of the books was for political purposes?

CHARLESTON'S VOTE AND THE EXPOSITION.

That Charleston's vote in the last primary is very inconsistent with her political principles is very evident to every one acquainted with the political history of the State, but we have no sympathy whatever with the position that the vote of Charleston should injure the Exposition. Charleston has been opposed to the dispensary, and of course Tillman must smile now that she votes for the dispensary candidate, but no sensible man should let this interfere with his interest in the Exposition.

In the first place, the Exposition is not for Charleston only, but for the State and the entire South. It should be a matter of State pride that the enterprise should be a success. It is a narrow view to say that Charleston's politics should injure the enterprise. It is almost childish.

The principal argument made by the imperialists in favor of their policy, besides the sordid commercial view, is that the policy will be for the benefit of those subjected, that it is the onward march of civilization. Imperialists have had a crushing blow given to their argument by recent reports to the kind of warfare waged by the allied Powers in China.

The reports are very ugly, and should make all civilized nations blush that such troops should be sent to foreign countries in the name of civilization. It is true that the Russians more than the others have been charged with the savagery, but similar reports have come about Americans in the Philippines. We are accustomed to speak of the Chinese as half-civilized, and yet they have done no worse than some of the troops sent there to check their savagery. The dispatch states that the condition of affairs leaves "little ground for the favorable comparison of civilized warfare with Chinese methods." The report is that "robbery, ravishing and murder are so common that every responsible person one meets contributes stories from personal observation."

What will the Filipinos and the Chinese think of our civilization and Christian religion?

On the grounds which have been selected as the site of the South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian Exposition, there stands an old colonial home, which was the scene of lavish comfort and open-hearted hospitality in days gone by. It is proposed to restore this old home, now somewhat touched by the tooth of time, to something of its original state, and to collect within its walls valuable relics of the past. No State in the Union, perhaps, contains more of these relics than South Carolina, and some of these are not only notable as antiques, but have the added value of being historic. The table which Henry Laurens, President of the Congress of 1777, used while he was a prisoner in the Tower of London, is in the possession of a lady of South Carolina; few cities possess finer specimens of the work of the most famous of the early miniaturists than Charleston; does, while the old plantation home on the Ashley and the Cooper, which in some cases have been in the same family for more than two hundred years, are full of reminders of the men who made South Carolina a great State in the early days of the Republic, and whose memories are still kept green.

The flag as a "commercial asset" runs all through Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance. This letter alone shows the truth of Bryan's assertion that the Republican party puts the dollar above the man.

THE NEWS AND HERALD has repeatedly suggested the necessity of a building and loan association in Winsboro. While a strictly building and loan association might not pay in so small a place, a company that would advance money to build homes to be repaid in monthly installments would do well and do much towards building up the town. A great many people not able to invest $2,000 in a home in a solid lump would be able to do so in monthly installments. Such companies have been found necessary in all progressive towns, and great aids in building them. A few weeks ago a correspondent intimated that a building and loan association could be organized in Winsboro, and requested our people to think it over. We repeat the suggestion that it may be kept before the community.

The storm that has worked such destruction in Galveston and many small towns in Texas was perhaps the worst in the history of storms in the South. Many lives have been lost, a great amount of property has been destroyed, and much suffering will follow as a matter of course. We should be thankful that the storm did not come this way, and there is no better way of showing our thankfulness than by contributing to the relief of the sufferers in Texas. They will need help.

One of the surest signs of Bryan's increased strength is that the independent political students of politics are coming over to his side, such as Schurz, Olney and men of that type. One of the strongest letters we have seen on the political situation is the letter of Mr. Olney. It is a severe arraignment of McKinleyism, and it presents unanswerable reasons why Bryan should be elected. We expect to hear from President Cleveland before many months.

It is hardly fair to say that Charleston's 2,967 votes for McGraw and her 373 votes for Lloyd show that she favors the dispensary, though it tends to show her satisfaction with the dispensary as administered there. Her vote does give an implied sanction to the principle that it is a function of government to engage in the whiskey business.

We agree with the State that it is a queer thing to quote D. H. Chamberlain as a defender of Bryan, but after all Chamberlain is a scholar and a man of wonderful intellect. He is out of politics and can have no motive for praising Bryan. He is, therefore, a competent critic.

It is stated that Mr. F. H. Weston will be a candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives. He has had a great deal of experience; he is courteous; he is capable, and would make a good presiding officer.

PROHIBITION may not prohibit, but prohibition will prevent a possible political whiskey machine supported by the taxes of all the people. Most anything is better than a political machine.

Ten cents for cotton is good enough. If we had cotton, we would sell around ten cents.

RIDGEWAY NOTES.

Ridgeway school will open on Monday, September 10. Mr. Moore, the new principal, and family arrived some days ago and are occupying "Holly Hill," the summer home of Mrs. William T. Edmunds.

Cotton is coming in rapidly and bringing a good price.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. ## OUR PHILIPPINE LETTER.

Cagayan, Mindanao, Philippines, July 11, 1900. I will try and give your readers some information regarding the different tribes that inhabit the island of Mindanao where my regiment is now stationed. I will first take up the Moros. Mindanao is in Mohammedan land. It is the zone of the Moros, and its people are far different from those living in the northern part of the Philippines. The Archipelago may be divided into three zones, according to the predominant races which inhabit it. The northern zone embraces Luzon and its neighboring islands. Here live the Filipinos with whom we have been warring war and of whom the world knows most. They are the Tagals, Tagalos or Tagalogs. The names all mean the same and are used indifferently. The Tagals are perhaps the best educated and the most civilized of the inhabitants of the islands. Below Luzon and north of Mindanao is a collection of good size islands, which may be called the middle zone. This includes Iloilo, Negros, Cebu, Leyte, Samar, &c. These islands are inhabited chiefly by Visayans, who are much like the Tagals, although they are a little more quiet and not so courageous. They are civilized, having their plantations and rice fields and nominally at best working for a living. Below the Visayan zone lies the third and last zone, which may be called the zone of the Mohammedans or Moros. This includes the great island of Mindanao, the pearl island of Basilan and the hundreds of islands of the Sulu group, which may be seen popping up out of the water on the map looking like a series of stepping stones all the way from Zamboanga to Borneo, which, strange to say, is our next door neighbor out here in the southern Pacific. These zones, it must be remembered, are not inhabited entirely by the above mentioned races. Each island has its savages of various tribes, who live in the mountains, and there are many divisions of the predominant race, the Tagals in some provinces speaking a dialect which could not be understood in the Tagal provinces of a different part of the same island. There are Tagals living among the Visayans and a large number of Visayans among the Moros. The Tagals and the Visayans are Christians; the Moros, of whom there are also many divisions, are universally Mohammedans.

Leaving the Moros for the time, I will write first about the savages of Mindanao. The great part of them go about in breech cloth; many of them live in the top of trees and some make their houses in hollow logs. Among them are the Negritos, or little Negroes, similar to the little blacks found in Luzon. There are also tribes of these scattered over Mindanao, one consisting about 2,000 called Manuats, living in the peninsula of Sulu. These people are poisoned arrows and are extremely savage; they are of a low state of intelligence and it is extremely doubtful if they could ever be civilized. Not far from the Rio Grande River there is a race of savages called the Turayags, who live in the mountains. Their houses are built of bamboo poles, the first floor being about two feet above the ground. The inhabitants get into their houses by crawling up a notched stick, which they pull up at night. The houses are made of thatch and bamboo poles and are usually very small. In some cases they consist of only a roof and floor, being without walls of any kind and having only posts at the corners to support the roof. These people go almost naked. A man who has just returned from a trip among them says that the men he saw wore squares of cloth suspended from a string of beads, their waists and women wore shirts, which were not more than a foot long. The women had brass rings on their ankles and wrists. The men were armed with bows and arrows and spears. The weapons were poisoned, the weapons were poisoned, the poison coming from a tree which grows in the mountains.

The Mindayags are a strange people, who live in the eastern part of this island and not far from Manila. They have recently established aarrison at that point. They have fair skins and look not unlike Europeans. In addition to these are many other tribes, some of whom, such as the Bagolos, Atas, Gnyangas and Tagacoolas, are notorious for having human sacrifices. Many of the savages are head hunters and all are supposed to be unfriendly to the whites. As to this, however, nothing certain can be known until explorations can be made. Such of the soldiers as have gone into the mountains have not been molested, and the probability is that if the people are kindly treated there will be little trouble with them. The problem of handling them and the Moros is a most serious one, especially the Moros. This so far has been most admirably done by General Bates, but whether the policy will hold good is yet to be seen. I find the Moros a most interesting people. There are in the neighborhood of 200,000 of them on this island. They have villages everywhere along the coast and about the lakes of the interior. There are large numbers of them about Zamboanga, and I see them everywhere. They are semi-savage, but their civilization, history and character is such that they will have to devote one or more special letters to describing them. They have caused the Spaniards trouble for centuries, and until now have steadily resisted any union of either religion or government with the whites.

I will close this and write you again soon, giving you some of the resources of the island of Mindanao. We are all expecting to be home by Christmas next. The soldiers here are all in favor of Bryan for president and I hope that he may be elected and the war here brought to a close. I don't think that the United States has any right over here, and if they hold it in there will always be trouble. I hope that your readers will find the piece interesting and that all the farmers may have good crops and realize a good price for some time coming.

With best wishes and kindest regards to self and family, I am yours truly,

R. A. H. P. O.

DOTS FROM LUKE

There was an ice cream entertainment at Mr. S. S. Crawford's by Mr. J. W. Milling and Miss Lillie Crawford. It was greatly enjoyed by all who attended it. We were glad to have with us among the number Messrs. Eugene Rabb, Eugene McNaul and Miss Daisy Milling from Jackson Creek, also Miss Bessie Stewart from Woodward, Miss Jannie Danbar from Chester and Miss Daisy Ford from White Oak.

A very attractive little lad, Mr. Hugh Henderson, from Newberry, is visiting relatives in this community.

Mrs. T. W. Traylor and son spent a few days with her relatives.

Miss Janie Roberts, of Monticello, has been visiting Miss Daisy Crawford.

Messrs. A. J. Brown and W. H. Crawford paid a flying visit to Mr. S. S. Crawford a few days ago.

Miss Mamie Crowder from our neighborhood is visiting her friends near White Oak.

Mrs. J. A. Stewart, of Woodward, paid Mrs. C. M. Ladd a visit a few days since.

It is still dry and hot and cotton is opening very fast, but the farmers are afraid their cotton crop will be short but hope to get a good price.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Hallows, of Freeport, Me. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by McMaster Co., druggists.

President McKinley's Niece

The marriage of Miss Mabel McKinley, niece of President McKinley, naturally arouses interest in "The Brides of the White House," because of Miss McKinley's close relationship to the Chief Executive of the nation. Mrs. Schuyler Crumrine, who has written for the October Delinquent a charming article regarding the few women who have been honored with White House weddings. It is both romantically and historically interesting. The October number of the Delinquent, in addition to Mrs. Crumrine's article and the eighty or more sketches of present-day styles, which are prominent features of the magazine, contains twenty other valuable contributions. For thirty years it has been trusted by American women for guidance in home dressing and home management.

WINE OF CARDU

Are you nervous? Are you completely exhausted? Do you suffer every month? Do you have "dysmenstrual" cramps? Do you have "dyspareunia" or pain in coitus? Do you have "leucorrhoea" or white discharge? Do you have "vaginitis" or inflammation of the vagina? Do you have "cervicitis" or inflammation of the cervix? Do you have "metrorrhagia" or irregular menstruation? Do you have "menorrhagia" or excessive menstruation? Do you have "amenorrhoea" or absence of menstruation? Do you have "hypermenorrhoea" or excessive menstruation? Do you have "hypomenorrhoea" or scanty menstruation? Do you have "dysmenstrual" cramps? Do you have "dyspareunia" or pain in coitus? Do you have "leucorrhoea" or white discharge? Do you have "vaginitis" or inflammation of the vagina? Do you have "cervicitis" or inflammation of the cervix? Do you have "metrorrhagia" or irregular menstruation? Do you have "menorrhagia" or excessive menstruation? Do you have "amenorrhoea" or absence of menstruation? Do you have "hypermenorrhoea" or excessive menstruation? Do you have "hypomenorrhoea" or scanty menstruation?

WINE OF CARDU is a pure, natural, and delicious beverage, which is rich in iron and other elements necessary for the health of the blood. It is a most valuable remedy for all the above mentioned ailments, and is especially adapted for the use of women. It is sold by all druggists and grocers.

THE READING ROOM

The reading room was opened the latter part of June as an experiment, and we are pleased to say has proven very successful under the circumstances. The librarian's books show that 298 magazines have been taken out, and of these only four have not yet been returned. We consider this a good showing for the short period of two months, and the fact that the fines at five cents a day for failure to return promptly have amounted to only $1.15 shows that the readers have shown an abiding interest in the privilege accorded them.

There have been no fees in connection with the room except the fines. The expenses for running it up to the present time have amounted to $17.65, and the funds have been raised as follows: By entertainment $12.25; by Prof. Hammell's lecture $4.25; by fines $1.15. But the funds are now exhausted, and the time of the subscriptions has expired. It has been decided on account of certain circumstances not to endeavor to continue just at the present time, though the experiment has proven satisfactory enough to warrant it. However, it will be made to secure enough funds to reopen the first of January and to continue as a permanent organization. This temporary suspension is only for putting on a framer and a more lasting basis.

We wish again to thank Judge Neil for the generous loan of the room, and we are also grateful to Miss Louise Sigheaves who has performed the duties of librarian so courteously and so efficiently.

The magazines on hand will be turned over to the librarian of the school library as the property of the Mr. Zion Library, and there we hope they will continue to do good among the school children.

We might add that the reading room has been visited by some member of nearly every white family in town. By the united effort of all its permanency is assured.

J. Frank Foshee.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the cough remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Doan's German Syrup." It not only lessens and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but it soothes the inflamed, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommend many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by McMaster Co., druggists.

The Children's Hour

In both the September and October numbers of The Delinquent Magazine Hall has shown very skillfully the value to both mother and child of "The children's hour." The heartiest welcome to raise the great profession of motherhood to its proper place. The women who are interested in guiding and training their children have the advantage in the Delinquent of corresponding with the well-known fictionist, Ward McLeod, who takes the "girl" in that magazine of an e-mailing department to practical guidance in the October number of The Delinquent, in addition to Miss Hall's article and Ward McLeod's work, and eighty or more sketches of present-day styles, which are prominent features of the magazine, contains twenty other valuable contributions. For thirty years it has been trusted by American women for guidance in home dressing and home management.

A Life and Death Struggle

M. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, N. H., one of the most successful escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have been cured by my recommendation, and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at McMaster Co.'s drug store.
